Youngstown Lad Suffocated, Body Thrown Into Lake

YOUNGSTOWN, March 1.—Police today searched determinedly for the person who killed 13-year-old Frank Suhovecky by suffocation and then threw his body into the cold water of Lake Cohasset in Mill Creek park.

Dr. David H. Hauser, coroner of Mahoning county, after an examination said the boy died of suffocation before the body was placed in the lake. No water was found in the boy's lungs.

Dr. Hauser also said that the youth had been slashed over the head, apparently with either an ax or a hatchet.

Letter Leads To Discovery

The body was recovered yesterday after friends, relatives and police had tried for ten days to find some reason for young Suhovecky's mysterious disappearance.

An anonymous letter to Frank's brother, Mike, 23, describing the spot where the body was found and hinting that it would be found there, sent detectives to the lake with grappling hooks.

A suspect arrested yesterday was released when police decided that his handwriting did not resemble that on the letter to the brother.

The boy disappeared on the evening of Feb. 18 as he was returning from a dump where he had gone to pick up some scrap which he and a friend had found the day before.

Att'y Blaine H. Cochran,
50, Succumbs Suddenly At
His Home in East Liverpool

Prominent In County Legal Circles For Last 27 Years; Active In Politics and Was Founder of East Liverpool Rotary Club

EAST LIVERPOOL, March 1.—Attorney Blaine H. Cochran, 50, prominent in Columbiana county legal circles for the last 27 years, died at his home here early this morning following a stroke of apoplexy which he suffered while at his office late yesterday.

Mr. Cochran was born here. He graduated from high school in 1903 after which he attended Ohio Northern Law school. He graduated there in 1907 and started legal practice in 1908. Until a year ago he was associated with S. W. Crawford, former probate judge in a law firm. For the past year he has been working alone.

Attorney Cochran was candidate for probate court himself two years ago and at one time also was a candidate for city solicitor. He was mayor's clerk here from 1908 to 1912.

The Liverpool Rotary club was organized by Attorney Cochran in 1920 and he was the club's first president. He was active in crippled children's work which the Rotarians sponsor. He also was a member of the Masons and Elks lodges and Methodist Episcopal church.

In his earlier days he was active in sports. During his college days he played football. Attorney Cochran also was talented as a vocalist.

Besides his wife Esther Jane Cochran, he is survived by four daughters, two sons, three brothers and one sister.

Funeral service probably will be held Monday afternoon with burial in East Liverpool. The county bar association, which meets in East Liverpool Monday, plans a memorial service preceding the regular service.

DEBATE RELIEF
OVER WEEKENDDemocratic Leaders Put Hope In Series of Conferences

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Democratic leaders looked today for week-end conferences on the $4,880,000 work and relief bill in an apparent hope that the deadlock could be broken before the senate meets again on Monday.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader who conferred for 90 minutes with President Roosevelt last night, planned a discussion today with negotiators seeking a compromise on the McCarran amendment which would require the president to pay prevailing wages to the 3,500,000 "employees" the government plans to put to work.

Details of the projects will not be announced until federal approval is obtained, which must await congressional action on the administration's relief appropriation bill.

THOMAS FOILED

REGAIN HIS JOBOusted Warden and At-

PenitentiaryTHEY ARE ALLOWED

Refuses To Let Him
Go To Work

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., March 1.—President E. Thomas ousted warden of Ohio penitentiary, today sought unsuccessfully to resume his duties at the century-old prison.

Thomas, accompanied by his attorneys, appeared at the prison and was admitted but Col. Gilson Light, of the Ohio national guard, said he would enforce the orders he had received and would not permit Thomas to take any active part in the management of the penitentiary.

Davey Out For Lunch

After a conference of more than an hour in Warden James C. Woodward's office, Thomas and his attorneys, Paul Herbert and D. B. Ulrey, departed, supposedly for the governor's office, but the executive had left for luncheon and said he would not be back until after 3 p.m.

Just before Thomas left the prison, this joint statement, drawn up by the conferees, was issued:

"Warden Thomas stated that he was ready, willing and able to resume his duties of Warden at the penitentiary but would refuse to relinquish his duties to Mr. Woodward. Whereupon Col. Light stated that acting under orders that he had received in his capacity he would not permit any orders or instructions of Warden Thomas to be made and would not permit Warden Thomas to take any active part in the management of the penitentiary."

Status Doubtful

Thomas' status was questioned by his attorneys earlier in the day. They held that the original order of dismissal, filed by Mrs. Margaret Allman, state welfare director, and effective last Saturday, had been superseded by another order today dismissing Thomas effective next Monday at 6 p.m. They contended that Thomas was warden in fact until next Monday at the hour specified, and that if he did not appear at the prison to resume his duties, he might be charged with being absent from his post without permission. Therefore they took the warden to the penitentiary.

BLUE DAYS

There are many signs of low morale in Washington. Things have not been going smoothly. Temper are shorter. Uncertainty is more common. The Roosevelt administration has gambled heavily on the chances that if it gave business a big push momentum would do the rest. So far, the result has been disappointing. Unemployment relief is a bigger responsibility than ever.

It becomes a question of some importance as to whether this depressed state is temporary or permanent. Specifically, stated in the language of politics, his countrymen are beginning to wonder if President Roosevelt has any more rabbits left in the hat. The show and their interest in it are beginning to droop. Politically, it's time to bring on a new act.

Long ago it was pointed out, and the observation seems worth repeating, that the new deal has been a victim of its own excessive ballyhoo. Each new detail in its broad procedure has been played up as the most important one yet—the National Recovery Act, the exhortation to employers for higher wages and fewer hours, the housing program, the swing to the right, the current public works relief bill. Singly and collectively, they have been disappointments.

Morale is low at the beginning of President Roosevelt's third year. Even the President, it is reported, shows signs of the strain. His affability is not quite so spontaneous. His optimism is not quite so sparkling. Washington is having blue days, from the greenest congressman on up to the highest officials. The machinery is not working. The new deal is less sure of itself.

Mr. Roosevelt's friends say he has plenty of strength in reserve to stand such an interval of uncertainty. They believe he is marking time and that soon he will inject his dynamic personality into operations and things will hum again. Blue days are unavoidable. The new deal had them about a year ago this time, it is remembered. It emerged from the ordeal after a time. Presumably, it will be able to do so again.

BLAME OR PRAISE?

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace throws more cold water on the chilling hopes of the wage earner by predicting a 10 percent increase in prevailing food prices.

Consumers, of course, can't be expected to applaud a process which increases the cost of living more rapidly than their incomes. According to one estimate, the average weekly wage increased about 12 percent in 1934 while food costs increased about 12 percent. Other living costs, such as clothing and house furnishings, increased a great deal more.

Therefore, something must be wrong with the process. However, it is exactly what was expected from the agricultural adjustment program. Alarmed by an unforeseen drought, the program has produced more tangible results than the adjusters dared believe possible. Farm income is increasing enormously. Processors are doing better. The people—the consumers, that is—are paying the bill.

Eventually, they will be repaid in the form of greater buying power among farmers. Theoretically, this cannot happen until there has been brought about a sort of vague distribution of wealth, shifting buying power from those who still have it to those who don't. Then it will have to be shifted back by some means or other. Apparently, farmers can't be strengthened without weakening their city cousins, temporarily.

Before food prices started to rise, this was a fairly common theory. It couldn't be put into practice, skeptics said. They must have been wrong. Food costs more, therefore the farmer must be getting more, despite the wily and wicked middleman. Agricultural adjustment, aided by a drought, is succeeding. Now what? Is everything all right now, or is it necessary to worry about the budget which is going to have to be stretched to cover increased food prices?

THE STARS SAY

For Saturday, March 2

A day of intriguing and problematical circumstances is forecast from the predominant planetary influences. There may be mysterious, perplexing and baffling situations to cope with, as well as sudden upheavals, changes and stirring about in quite an unforeseen manner. However, there are signs of gain, advancement and a possible stabilizing of the work and fortunes through these speculative methods. Taking chances may be advisable, but be alert to treachery and subtlety. In private affiliations there may be some gratifications.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for an unforeseen, baffling and intriguing state of affairs during the year, and these may prove to the advantage if prudently and discreetly manipulated. Employment, labor and real possessions are assured some measure of success, but beware fraud, treachery and subtle enmity. Change new contacts and adventures may be expected and personal affairs may gratify.

A child born on this day may be restless, fond of new environments, contacts and experiences, but will succeed in employment and by industry, diligence and personal favoritism.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, March 1—Thoughts while strolling: Who remembers when everybody said pocket lighters wouldn't work? Best American song in 20 years—The Last Round Up. Look alike: Dwight Davis and Howard Brubaker. Wonder if anyone drinks like a Dashiell Hammett hero? That W. J. Bryan curl in Heywood Brown's hair.

Never saw a pair of tango dancers smiling. Mickey Nelan's memoirs should put Hollywood in stitches. Add crazy ambitions. To hurl a bushel of dimes from the Empire tower. More look alike: Edwin Markham and Santa Claus. Human monochrome in gray—Carl Van Vechten.

How to stay awake all night: Try to work out rhyme-form where vowel forms permute like this: nutty, nighty, naughty. Or fatty, flighty, forty. Cole Porter doesn't give the hero-worshippers a chance to get sick of him. He skips to the other side of the world. One word description of F. P. A.—sardonic.

Visitors from France spend their time riding the skyscraper elevators, the spendthrifts. Jack Dempsey's collars are tighter than Sid Solomon's. The illusionist Cardini's oyster-white complexion. No wonder after all those cigarettes. Made up name for Herbert Swope's whirlwind giddyap—spuz.

A shaggy sheep dog makes one think of Lloyd George. A Russian wolfhound of Dolores. And a dachshund of that phoney Broadway count. Nick Kenney's auto license with his initials. Babe Ruth must be easy to sculpt. Crying ladies from the matinees. That's what I crave, a good cry.

The elder Cornelius Vanderbilt are said to be looking for escape from their dull red mansion on a Fifth Avenue corner. What was once a palace among palaces is now scooped in by vulgar trade on all sides. The only other residential echo of another day is the Helen Gould mansion a skip south and it's rarely unboarded in recent years. About the only show of life in the Vanderbilt house is the side-whiskered butler who peeps through a door curtain late afternoons at passing crowds. He's a Hawkins right out of Belgrave Square.

More than a dozen mushroom magazines have tried at various times to follow the shake-down rule of Town Topics since that journal of social tattle went on the rocks. But all died aborning. Under the blackmail bludgeoning of Col. Mann, Town Topics threw terror into high places and hundreds paid through the nose. But no one has had the Mann technique since that bewhiskered rascal passed from the mortal scene. A weekly tried similar tactics in modified form in the Times Square area but its editor was soon crated off to Atlanta.

Like most downtown enterprises the telescope man has also been caught in the northward sweep. For years, in the wind and the rain, he revealed the wonders of the heavens from a corner of Madison Square. Early this winter he crept up to Longacre and now comes out every dusk with the yap wagon barkers to hang up his familiar sign. "See Old Sirius, the dog star, and the splendors of Saturn—10 cents." But his pickings seem slim. His are not the stars Broadway wants to see.

Doane Powell, long a middle-west cartoonist, has been exhibiting what he calls his "masques vivant" at one of the galleries. In a period of unemployment he discovered an ability to fashion masks in papier-mache of celebrities into startling likeness. So much so that total strangers have, for a lark, worn them to parties and been accepted as Clifton Webb, Noel Coward, Alfred Lunt, Dudley Field Malone or Frank Sullivan. And several, unsuspecting, have been scared out of their wits when the masks were suddenly removed.

Money and poets are usually far apart. But Hartman has linked them in its bank. The Dunbar National, gleaming bright on a prominent corner. The name is a memorial to the gifted poet, Paul Laurence Dunbar, who, like Keats, died so tragically young. Dunbar was a copy boy on a newspaper in Dayton, O., for which I once labored. None of us thought him especially talented. But that's a world attitude toward poets until too late.

Nutty tipsy tale. Two drunks weaving home after midnight argue whether the moon shining so brightly is the moon or sun. They decided to ask the next man they met. He lurched out of a saloon and they put the question. Scanning the skies from zenith to horizon, he bowed elaborately and hiccuped: "You'll have to excuse me but I'm a stranger in this town!"

posed to be erected at some location within the Beaver Rural school district, a combination of five townships, and the cost of this improvement has been estimated at $45,000.

Losing Their Share

Concerning West, Hanover and Knox townships, a new high school has been proposed at a cost of $190,000. It is this territory that is now losing approximately $33,000 annually for the tuition of children being transported to Carroll and Stark county schools.

In Yellow Creek township, the school district has $815 available for an addition to present facilities, but $4,000 more is being asked under the proposed budget.

Another project costing $175,000 for high school purposes has been suggested, but the location of this building is undetermined.

Because of the crowded condition of Leetonia schools, additions have been proposed in that school district to the extent of $100,000.

State aid is to be obtained for a considerable part of this school improvement program, while other funds are expected to be obtained through PERA appropriations.

Pomona Grange Resolutions On Varied Subjects Listed

Pomona Grange members at a meeting recently in Wayne township hall conducted a business session and adopted several resolutions. The measures, in entirety, were announced today as follows:

Taxes

In view of the fact that the voters of Ohio have adopted the 10 mill limitation in assessments on real estate for Ohio, we advocate first, that the strictest economy be enforced in the operation of government, local, municipal and state, and second that:

Salaries

Whereas, millions of people are bearing no share in this depression, drawing salaries approximately the same as in prosperous times.

Therefore, be it resolved: That all salaries above one thousand dollars should be reduced from 10 to 40 per cent, thereby relieving the taxpayer of an unjust burden and would go far toward balancing the budget.

(2) Whereas, rabbits are being brought here from other states and being turned loose on our farms by certain organizations in the county.

Highways

(1) We oppose any diversification of the gas tax or license fee collected on motor vehicles for other than road purposes.

(2) We favor the complete elimination of future road assessments, except in cases where two-thirds of the land owners and two-thirds of the acreage affected agree to such assessments.

(3) We urge that part of the FERA funds be used for improving local township roads under direction and supervision of county and township officials.

(4) We demand lower license fees for farm owned trucks used for private farm business only.

Control of Livestock

(1) We assert it to be the right of farmers individually or cooperatively to purchase hog cholera virus from reputable manufacturers operating under government supervision, to be administered by the individual to his own hogs.

(2) We approve the plan now being put into effect for the elimination of cattle by areas that are found reacting to the blood test for Bang's disease.

(3) We favor the continuation of adequate appropriations for the maintenance of tuberculosis-free accredited counties in Ohio.

(4) In order to prevent the spreading of diseases of livestock through community sales, we urge the enactment of a law placing them under state supervision for disease control and requiring health certificates for cattle sold.

Miscellaneous

(1) We favor an amendment to the container law providing that the grade must be stated when potatoes and other products subject to the law are advertised for sale by retailers and other persons.

(2) We recommend that all relief be administered by local authorities.

(3) We oppose any constitutional amendment that will deprive

Exams Are Planned By Civil Service

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:

Assistant statistical clerk, $1,620 a year, departmental service, Washington, D. C.

Chief dietitian, $2,300 to $2,900 a year, head dietitian, $2,000 to $2,500 a year, staff dietitian, $1,800 to $2,160 a year, Public Health Service and Veterans' Administration.

All States except Utah, Iowa, Vermont, Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia have received less than their quota of appointments in the apportioned departmental service in Washington, D. C. The dietitian positions are not affected by the State apportionment law.

Ful information may be obtained from F. O. Heston, Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners, at the post office in this city.

"I SUFFERED WITH CONSTIPATION* FOR SIXTEEN YEARS"

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief to Mr. McNeil

We quote from his unsolicited letter: "I suffered with constipation* for 16 years. Finally, I started using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to combat constipation. It helped wonderfully by overcoming constipation*". Mr. L. M. McNeil, Lockwood, W. Va.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid elimination. Also vitamin B and iron.

This "bulk" resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables, so it is more effective. ALL-BRAN continues to get results when used for months.

Isn't this food safer than risking patent medicines? Two tablespoonsfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. If seriously constipated, use with each meal. See your doctor, if you do not get relief.

Use as a cereal with milk or cream, or in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The Beacom Co., Opens New Dodge, Plymouth Agency

The Beacom Co. dealers in Dodge cars and trucks and Plymouth cars, will open their modern showroom and garage in the South Ellsworth ave. Saturday

Interiors are made more comfortable by a clear-vision ventilation system, and there is an almost lavish display of space. Bodies are wider and there is more space between floor and roof, though the car's overall height is not increased.

Of outstanding interest is the front wheel action, which incorporates a rigid front axle; specially soft, thin-leaf springs; double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and a rubber-cushioned synchronizing mechanism called the "ride leveler."

This latter does away with the tendency of the car to sway and makes possible the use of highly flexible springs.

The New Dodge

Dodge Bros. automobiles for 1935 offer several remarkable features. Body stylists have applied to the cars a practical working of streamline principles, and the mechanical details include a high-compression Red Ram engine, a new synchromesh transmission; a new ride achieved by a redistribution of weight, plus a new front spring assembly, "floating" power engine mountings and hydraulic brakes.

The all-steel body fits down over the double-drop X-type frame.

Body and frame are bolted together at 46 points. Thus the frame becomes a unit of the body along with the all-steel floor, side panels, center posts and other members.

This design also permitted the engineers to build more room in the bodies. Plymouth seats are wider.

The floor has been lowered 3 1/4 inches, providing a lower center gravity and more leg and head room for the passengers.

Bible Class Meets

The Young Ladies' Bible class of the Presbyterian Sunday school will hold the monthly business and social meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Taylor, north of town, with the teacher, Mrs. C. E. Bender as associate hostess.

This will be the annual election of officers and all members are urged to attend.

Another of the series of Bingo parties sponsored by Benjamin Firestone post, American Legion, will be held Saturday evening in the Legion hall. The regular post meeting scheduled for Wednesday evening of this week, was not held, since the Washington's birthday party last Friday was an added event of the month. The next post session will be held Wednesday evening, March 13, which will be followed by a meeting of the Columbian Board of Education.

The Garfield Juvenile Grange met in the hall Tuesday evening for a regular meeting. A resolution was passed that the quail should be kept on the song bird list. The secretary was instructed to send the resolution to the state representatives and ask them to vote to that effect. Plans were made for the banquet which will be served to the teachers and the board of education of Mahoning county and the board of education of Goshen township and Garfield special district, Wednesday, March 6. There were fifty members present and three visitors from Ellsworth grange. The next regular meeting will be March 13, the men served a lunch.

The attendance and membership contest between the boys and girls of Garfield Juvenile grange announced to begin Wednesday evening was postponed until next regular meeting March 13. There was no Juvenile meeting held because the Garfield school children are quarantined to prevent further spread of scarlet fever. Leonard Borton and Dorothy Pettit of Garfield have the disease. The girls will have charge of the program March 13.

Bishop Tossers Grab Laurels in Naming Of '35 Buckeye Cage Five

Associated Press Picks Quintet That Boasts Height, Speed, Scoring Ability and Defensive Strength

By FRITZ HOWELL, Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, March 1.—Height, speed, scoring ability and defensive strength—that's the 1935 all-Buckeye loop basketball team selected for The Associated Press by sports writers, officials and coaches.

The champion Bishops of Ohio Wesleyan, undefeated in eight league games, get the Lion's share of laurels. The protégés of Ray Detrick, were awarded two first team and two second team berths.

Cincinnati got two places on the first, and one on the second team, while Ohio University topped the center job on the first team, and Marshall and Miami crashed through for second team positions.

The first string five is one of the highest scoring combinations ever named to the honor roll, having an average of 51.25 points per game. The five players in their eight Buckeye games, totaled 410 points, like this:

Carl Austing, Cincinnati, 108; Clovis Stark, Ohio Wesleyan 65; Bernard Berens, Ohio University, 115; Howard Stammier, Ohio Wesleyan, 70.

Clark Ballard, Cincinnati, 52. Stark, the spark plug of Ohio Wesleyan's great team, was awarded the captaincy by "Totey" Hallanan, Marshall's fine guard, was named leader of the second five.

Stark, the spark plug of Ohio Wesleyan's great team, was awarded the captaincy by "Totey" Hallanan, Marshall's fine guard, was named leader of the second five.

Graduation will take three of the first team members from the basketball wars this year, but Stark of Wesleyan and Austing of Cincinnati will be back next season. The first team averages far over six feet in height. Stammier and his five feet nine being the pygmy of the outfit.

Here's how the consensus lined 'em up:

First Team
Carl Austing, Cincinnati, forward; Clovis Stark, Ohio Wesleyan, forward.

Bernard Berens, Ohio University, center; Howard Stammier, Ohio Wesleyan, guard.

Clark Ballard, Cincinnati, guard.

Second Team
McAdams, Ohio Wesleyan, forward; Knutson, Miami, forward; Lloyd, Cincinnati, center; Hallanan, Marshall, guard; Takos, Ohio Wesleyan, guard.

Honorable mention:
Forwards: Reeves, Ohio U.; Patrick, Marshall; Mewhort, Wesleyan; Guards: Biedenbender, Cincinnati; Kincaid, Marshall; Reichley, Ohio University; Weiland, Miami.

While breaking even in a pair of basketball games Ohio State and Purdue have also broken even in the total number of points scored, each having 81. The first game was 42 to 41 for Purdue and the second 40-39 for Ohio State.

Illinois is the only team finishing the season ahead of the Ohio State basketball team. The Illini took two from the Bucks but in all other games Ohio either won two or broke even.

They are singing the praises of Tippy Dye, Ohio State's mite guard, around the Western Conference. In two games he held the highly rated Purdue forward, Norm Cotton, to a total of one field basket and two fouls. Stanley Fazole, Indianapolis referee, rates him as the best guard in the Big Ten. Dye has scored 84 points this season.

Buck Cagers To Close Season

Meet Michigan Tossers In Return Game Saturday

Special To The News
COLUMBUS, March 1 — Ohio State university's surprise basketball team will close its season Saturday night at the Fairgrounds coliseum when the University of Michigan plays a return game here. In the first meeting of the two schools earlier in the season Ohio was victorious, 33 to 30.

To date the Buckeyes have won 12 games and lost six, scored 564 points as compared with 549 for their opponents and have played to the record breaking crowd of 79,805 persons.

Regardless of the outcome of the Michigan game Saturday night the Ohio State team has broken even or is ahead of every Big Ten team with the exception of Illinois which won two straight from the Ohioans. Outside the conference the Bucks won four and lost two encounters.

Wind, Water Aid Campbell's Tests

By Associated Press
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 1—Wind and water finally have switched to the side of Sir Malcolm Campbell, and there was every indication today the British speed king would point the nose of his giant Bluebird at her own 272.108 mile an hour record.

There was even a slight possibility that Sir Malcolm, might make a test run today after "Wild Bill" Cummings, Indianapolis champion last year, takes his Diesel car out on the beach for a shot at the 125 mile an hour record for that type motor.

The beach was not ready for any more than a leisurely spin at say 175 miles an hour.

Campbell wanted to make a test run to finish the preparatory stage he started ten days ago with his first ride in the reconditioned Bluebird, when he sailed along at what he estimated was 200 miles an hour. He found several small things wrong with the car then. The next day the beach started going from bad to worse, was wracked with gullies, and did not begin to improve until the wind shifted to the northeast and the waves started running high two days ago.

"I don't think it's possible to make even a test run," he said, "but I shall be watching closely. I'm sure I can make a test run by Saturday, and I'd like to go for the record Sunday."

'EARN AS LEARN' AT CINCINNATI

More Than Half Are Making Money In Outside Employment

CINCINNATI, O., Mar. 1—More than one-half of the regular student body of the University of Cincinnati is on an "earn-as-you-learn" basis, a survey reveals.

Of the approximately 4,000 students, nearly 2,300 are earning money through outside employment. Many of these student wage-earners are making enough to meet all their campus expenses. These figures, moreover, do not include nearly 4,000 evening students, most of whom have full or part-time employment during the day.

The large number of student earners, university officials say, is partly due to the fact that approximately 1,200 are enrolled in cooperative courses in the college of engineering and commerce and the school of applied arts.

As a part of their college training in engineering, business and applied arts, these students are required to work seven weeks in each 14-week semester under university supervision with firms located throughout the middle west.

Aid from the FERA permits the university to give employment to 331 students — 348 men and 183 women. The university Y. M. C. A. has found employment for another 128 men.

Of the 291 students in the college of medicine, 30 per cent find time for outside employment. The college of law reported 37 per cent of its 201 students have remunerative employment.

Manual as well as intellectual occupations help fill the student purses. Some have such lowly jobs as swinging pick and shovel under a FERA campus beautification project. Several women work four hours a day in homes for room and board. Several others act as tutors.

ARTISTRY in the frosting of a lovely cake. It adds charm and flavor. The knack of doing a good job isn't difficult to acquire, yet so many people write in to say that their frostings aren't a success. There are three kinds of frostings and the successful cake maker should be familiar with all three. Butter frostings are uncooked and are easy and quick to make. These frostings are made by creaming butter, adding confectioners' sugar and some liquid such as milk, cream or fruit juice to make a soft creamy mixture that will spread. Such frosting made with a large amount of butter and a little liquid will remain moist for days. These frostings can be used for decorating with a pastry tube. When used in this way they are easier to handle and less frosting is wasted if bag or tube is filled only half full of frosting at a time.

Made Like Fondant

Creamy cooked frostings, such as fudge or caramel mixture, are cooked mixtures of sugar and liquid with some flavoring added. These frostings are made like fondant or fudge and require the same careful attention to cooking temperature. For the proper, creamy consistency always cook these mixtures to the exact stage or temperature specified in the recipe.

Fluffy frostings such as boiled frosting or seven-minute frosting are made of a sugar-syrup mixture and eggs. Seven-minute frosting is a simplified boiled frosting made by beating the sugar, water and egg mixture all together in a double boiler. Use a deep double boiler and a double rotary egg beater. These frostings are decorative and popular for dessert and party cakes. They are soft and smooth when properly made, crust very lightly on top so that they are not sticky. Do not keep as well as butter frostings, so are not so suitable to store.

Rules For Frosting

To frost cakes properly certain rules must be followed. Cool cakes thoroughly before frosting, brushing away all loose crumbs. In frosting a layer cake spread frosting smoothly on one layer at a time. Frost the first layer, then put on the second layer, placing it carefully so that the edges are even and the cake uniform in height. To frost the outside of the cake, first smooth the frosting on the sides—spread it deftly over the top edge and down around the sides in sweeping strokes. Pile the remainder frosting in center top of cake and spread lightly out to the edges. Swirl the frosting attractively with the back of a spoon or spatula.

Learn to work quickly and make every stroke count. Let the frosting appear natural and irregular—not fussy smoothed. Garnishes, such as nuts, raisins, bits of fruit, coconut, candies and silver dragees should be arranged carefully. For novel decorations apply butter frostings with a pastry tube. Keep the design simple and let it follow the shape of the cake.

THE EASILY prepared fresh fruit dessert is always popular and at this time of year, it is well to serve such desserts made from citrus fruits. Sliced oranges or a combination of oranges and other fruits supply vitamins often lost in cooking and so balance the cooked part of the meal. So let's serve orange marshmallow puff and earn the applause of the family. Whip one cup cream till thick, then fold in quarter cup sugar, one cup quartered marshmallows and one and a half cups orange segments. Serve cold. For variations use colored marshmallows, pink, orange, green, and add one small bottle marachino cherries cut in halves.

For orange nut whip, whip one cup whipping cream. Fold in three ounces peanut brittle rolled very fine, also one cup orange pieces. To make in automatic refrigerator, substitute orange juice for orange pieces. Freeze with half cup sugar to a mush in rapid freezing unit. Fold in cream and peanut brittle. Let stand only till frozen.

Baked Orange Marie

You'll like baked orange Marie and will want to serve it often as long as oranges are perfect. Cut off tops of eight oranges. With a sharp knife hollow out a small portion of each orange near the top. Then work the knife around to lift out pieces of the remaining pulp till orange shell is clean. Mix orange pulp with eight dates.

"THE LADY DANCES" by MARGE STANLEY

CHAPTER XXXV

She was being carried—a rather pleasant sensation, riding weightless through limber space. Afterwards, Vanya could recall almost the very moment when she lost consciousness; it was somewhere on that pleasant, effortless journey. For she remembered hearing Shene's order to "Lay her over on that!" but she never recalled the actual completion of the act. The darkness had deepened so that there was nothing left—not even darkness.

"Enough," Mark grunted, as the prau rounded the point and the Cove vanished. "Stop!"

The paddlers rested, giving an occasional stroke against the drift of the waves, whose slap sounded like Loring's irritating laugh.

"Beaten!" thought Mark dolorously. "The only thing I can do now is return and surrender. And how I hate it!" He stared morosely at the topmast of the Kermadec beyond the point.

"Anyway," he reflected, "Vanya's made of stern stuff. She called this bluff of mine, and no mistake!" He grimmed.

"The graceful thing to do," he continued, "would be to go right back, kneel before her, tell her I love her, and surrender on her terms. And that's what I'm tempted to do."

He sat musing, while the sun dipped into the western ocean, and the brief tropical twilight was over him. One could almost see the progress of the darkness; stars were already twinkling.

Then, thin and clear across the water came a shrill call, like a summons echoing out of a deep cavern.

"Mark!" sounded Loring's voice. "Mark Talbot!"

"Something's up!" thought Mark. Loring must think me far out of earshot, or else his infernal cleverness figured out what I'd do. Buck! he snapped at his paddlers. "To the beach—quick!"

The prau swung about in a wide circle; the drift of wave and wind had carried it some hundreds of feet away from the coral spit. Swiftly they moved toward it, where it showed as a deep shadow in the gathering darkness. Yet swift as the craft cut the water, it seemed interminably slow to Mark; a nervous excitement had seized him, for some obscure reason he was suddenly worried.

As the prau rounded the point, a burst of song drifted out to him. Loring was singing; there was a note Mark had never heard in his voice—something wild and joyous. "With gun and knife there join in strife."

Two men of manner shady, One is a villain, one a fool, Who—quite according to the rule Are fighting for a lady!"

The craft shot like a hunting shark through the channel between the point and the anchored ship. Mark, now erect in the center, saw the lighted ports of the Kermadec; the crew was still at mess. A crash sounded from the Diver's Helmet; he dug his nails into the palm of his hand, and strained as if he were thrusting the paddles. Loring's voice rose again in that wild song "Come closer, Shene—you dog unclean!"

I wish you bought but good! I merely think you need a bath To cleanse your filth and cool your wrath!

I'll give you one—in blood!" The prau groundered; Mark leaped on the instant into the knee-deep water and rushed across the clearing toward the door of the Diver's Helmet. As he touched the beach, the song rose fiercely, with a note of triumph.

Face in the gone upon the floor, Shene, like all villains, lies—!"

A shot crashed! The song ceased abruptly, then sounded in a different, faltering tone. For a moment the words were inaudible, then as he was almost upon the single step that rose before the door, the words were plain, high, thin, wavering. "The fool!—Oh course—he dies!"

Mark burst in upon a shambles. Projecting from behind the bar was the gigantic frame of Shene; blood still spurted from the hilt of the knife imbedded in his great corded neck. And Loring—Loring was sitting on the floor, leaning against the bar, his legs crossed as he was wont to sit beneath his tree. He smiled as Mark burst in.

"Good boy!" he said faintly. "I rather thought you'd be along."

"You're hurt!" said Mark.

"Nothing at all," murmured the beachcomber. "I think the lady's in there." He nodded toward the room beyond the piano. "And I think you'll find her drugged."

Mark dashed to the door, and crashed it open. Vanya lay with closed eyes and pallid face on the steamer chair. Her robe was in a heap on the floor; she lay in her dancing costume, with one tiny red slipper missing, and the throat of her scarlet blouse was torn open.

Treat Constipation THE WAY THAT DOCTORS DO

Use A Liquid Laxative

Doctors and hospitals have always used liquid laxatives. So would you, if you knew how well they do their work—how much better you feel.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Ask your doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly without any help.

Once you have experienced this comfort, you will never return to any form of help that does not encourage variation from the "fixed dose"—too often an overdose for sensitive persons, or young people!

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi.

4 FAMOUS WRITERS

Contribute articles you'll enjoy in "This Week"—the new magazine with Sunday's Plain Dealer.

SINCLAIR LEWIS

In his new serial, "Seven Million Dollars," Lewis introduces Cordwood McGash of Jackrabbit Creek—a character as real as Babbitt, and much more lovable . . . an easy-going, big-hearted, backshoeshoeshop pitchin' bachelor who takes a whole town to Paris, and gives until it hurts. Don't miss this important serial, specially written for THIS WEEK by America's only winner of the Nobel prize for literature.

RUPERT HUGHES

With graceful simplicity and effectiveness, Rupert Hughes relates the little known story of the strange "triangle" involving the lives of Abraham Lincoln, Stephen Douglas and Mary Todd, and how their love affairs played a part in the nation's destiny. Be sure to read "Destry Danced Twice," an excellent historical short short, in next Sunday's issue of THIS WEEK, our new Colorgravure magazine.

OCTAVUS ROY COHEN

America's favorite short story writer is at his best in "Hard-Boled," the romance of a prize-fighter and his lady—a true-to-life picture of the friendless plight of an ex-champ when his so-called "pals" desert him and he figures he's all washed up with the girl he loves. Both men and women will enjoy "Hard-Boled." Complete in next Sunday's issue of THIS WEEK, our new Colorgravure magazine.

ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

Everybody knows Terhune as the foremost writer of dog stories in America. His remarkable gift for interpreting the thoughts and actions of "man's best friend" is brilliantly evidenced in "Remembered," a fine collection of dog stories (all of them true), written specially for next Sunday's issue of THIS WEEK . . . and beautifully illustrated by Paul Bransom, noted animal artist. Don't miss this fine feature.

And many other features, including short stories by Corey Ford and Anna Brand, an excellent science article on model-building, and a fine dog cover in colorgravure, suitable for framing. Order your Sunday paper now.
